HOOVER FAVORS RETENTION TIME CLAUSE IN BILL

His View Opposed to Pres
Coolidge's Regard-

Washington, Jan. 28.—(AP)—An attempt to limit debate on the cruiser construction bill in the Senate was defeated today by an objection from Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana.
Chairman Hale of the Naval committee, then announced he would ask the Senate to begin night sessions on the bill beginning tomorrow night.

Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, supported the Wheeler objection on the ground that it was
"too early to shut off debate."

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, took up the argument against
the measure as the agreement failed,
and Senator Hale began gathering his forces to support the drive for night sessions.

Washington, Jan. 28.—(AP)—From the House side has come word that may influence voting on the time limit clause in the cruiser construction bill, which was again the order
of business today in the Senate.
Chairman Brien of the House Naval Affairs committee has represented
President-elect Hoover as favoring retention of the provision in the bill which would have work begin on the 15 cruisers and one aircraft carrier called for in the measure within three years.

President Coolidge wants the time
clause taken out of the bill, but his wishes were disregarded when the House passed it last year. Chairman
Hale of the Senate Naval Affairs committee, who is sponsoring the bill
in the Senate, wants the time limit clause kept in and he is confident that he has enough votes to carry his point.

The fight has hinged largely around that point for several days
and once that is settled, the final vote is believed to be near. However,
the time limit provision is not the only matter to be settled. Debate had not been finished today on the proposal by Senator Bingham of Connecticut, to strike out of the bill the clause calling for construction of eight of the sixteen warships in Navy yards.

His suggestion has met with strenuous opposition, particularly from Senator Johnson of California, Republican, and Senator Swanson, Democrat, Virginia. Johnson said he had figures which would prove that the government could build ships cheaper than private industry. Swanson said the government should keep both government and private yards
in operation.

Senator Walsh of Montana, in a speech before the Senate today outlining his reasons for opposing the cruiser bill, said that those who favor building the 16 ships have in mind
the possibility, first of a war with Great Britain, and second of a war
with Japan.

He declared that no one has indicated that the United States Navy
as it now stands was not adequate to meet results arising out of controversies with any other countries
save the two mentioned.

He was opposed to the bill, he declared, because he believed it would interfere with any attempt of the United States to obtain further agreements for the curbing of naval armament.

The cruiser bill, the Senator declared, contemplates that England
will continue her "traditional practice" of intercepting and searching neutral vessels in time of war and his contemplation, he added, will lead to difficulties.

"I am wedded to the idea of parity
between the United States and Great Britain," Walsh asserted, "but I should like to see that parity attained by scaling down, rather than
by building up."

Senator Walsh declared, however,
that in his opinion there is no incongruity in approving the Kellogg
treaty and in passing the cruiser bill.

Terse Items of News Gathered in Dixon During Day

DISLOCATED SHOULDER.

Mrs. James Stitzel of Nelson sustained a painful injury at her home
Saturday afternoon when she slipped on the ice covered sidewalk and fell, dislocating her right shoulder,
causing considerable pain.

FRANK RYAN IN TOILS.

Frank Ryan was arrested at noon
today by Chief Van Bibber and Officer Bohnstiel on Peoria avenue and taken to the police station. When the officers were looking Ryan up in a cell, they discovered a quart fruit
jar partly filled with moonshine liquor.

FINED FOR ASSAULT.

Pete Stanovitch of Nelson was arrested Saturday night and brought to Dixon by Deputy Sheriff Ray Wilson, following an altercation at the coal chutes in the NorthWestern yards. Stanovitch was alleged to have struck one of the workmen at the chutes when an argument arose. He paid a fine of $3 and costs on a charge of assault and battery.

COUSIN IS DEAD.

Miss Sarah Davlin has received word of the death Sunday of her cousin, Dr. Thomas C. Hollister at Idaho Falls, Idaho. Because of the condition of her health Miss Davlin
will be unable to attend the funeral,
which will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 at Idaho Falls.

SENT TO COUNTY JAIL.

Mike Kinney of this city was fined $100 and costs this morning by Justice W. T. Terrill in police court on a charge of transporting intoxicating liquor. He was sent to the county jail to board out his fine. Kinney walked into the police station last evening and his actions aroused the suspicions of Chief Van Bibber, who upon examination found that the visitor was carrying a "weasel" of alcohol. He was locked up until this morning when he was removed to the county jail.

FELL FROM BOX CAR.

Dan Palmer, a switchman employed in the NorthWestern yards, narrowly escaped serious injury Saturday afternoon while performing his duties. He was riding on top of a box car when his feet slipped on the ice covered running board and he fell to the ground. He suffered an injury to his back and the muscles
of his legs were sprained, causing him considerable pain. He was removed to his home where he received medical attention.

TWO BAD DEFEATS.

The Dixon high school basketball squad not only met defeat in a double header bill at Rochelle Saturday evening, but the entertainment took on the aspect of a massacre before the final whistle sounded in both games. The lightweight teams from both schools furnished the curtain
raising event in which Dixon lost by a score of 50 to 19.

The heavyweight teams then took the floor and Dixon attempted to stage a comeback which would avenge the lightweight defeat. This was blocked from the very start and the hard going Rochelle team run up a score of 54 to 13 against the Dixon first team.

Last of Body Guards of Lincoln is Dead

Lovell, Maine, Jan. 28.—(AP)—William W. Durgin, said to be the last survivor of the group of Union soldiers who acted as body guard and escort for the body of President Lincoln after his assassination in Washington, died here today at the age of 90.

Durgin and his companions accompanied the body of the slain
president of the trip to Springfield,
Illinois, and followed it to the grave.

FOCH MUCH BETTER

Paris, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Marshal
Ferdinand Foch passed such a good night and his condition had so improved generally today that his physicians thought it unnecessary to issue a bulletin. All visits to him, however, are still prohibited.

HUBERT A. HOWELL BUILT ORGAN FOR CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Instrument to be Dedicated Tomorrow: Is Fine Work

Tomorrow evening will see attained a long-cherished goal of many members of the Dixon Christian Church, the installation and dedication of a pipe organ. Standing aside for years from this desire, and joining in the congregation's efforts,
first, to liquidate fully the indebtedness on the church building, and later, in the campaign that resulted in the beautiful, modern manse on
W. Second St., the choir-members and other music-lovers of the church
last summer decided the hour had come for action; and led by the two ladies societies, the A.D. Society Mrs.
J. Lee Eastman, President; and the
C. C. Circle, Mrs. F. L. Spiller, president, started in real earnest.

With the approval and endorsement of the Church Board, a contract was soon entered with Hubert
A. Howell of Fellows Street, for an organ of the type that he had just built as his initial product in his father's home.

Work began in the Autumn, and has not been hurried, as the amateur builder was carefully resolved that the first public specimen of his workmanship should be thoroughly good. He had as assistant much of the time Kenneth R. Simpson of Chicago, his personal friend, and a trained organist, as well as capable mechanic. Mr. Simpson will appear in the closing numbers of the Dedicatory Concert, Tuesday evening.

Has 794 Pipes

The Howell organ consists of 794
pipes, all speaking ones, and all,
with chests and fan-chamber, enclosed behind with rich rayon drapes
and oak-grill screen, back of and above the pulpit and choir platform.
The console occupies the same position, below and to the right, where stood the reed-organ of previous memories, whose unusually sweet tones and full volume, under the touch of apt players led not a few
to suppose it was itself a small pipe-organ.

This new grill and drapes before
the organ effects a pleasing completion to this portion of the church interior that was noticeably lacking
previously, and reflects much credit
upon Messrs. A. S. Derr, Warren Shiplett, and Chas. Engle, who designed and constructed it. Mr. J. Lee Eastman is another whose constant
help in carpentry matters was a factor throughout.

Mechanically, the instrument is of the latest electro-pneumatic type,
containing thirteen sets of pipes,
which range in tone from those that are scarcely perceptible to the ear, to the ones whose volume fills the entire building.

Expert Amazed.

Benj. F. Sperbeck of Rock Island, organ specialist, who was secured by the Church Committee for final examination of the organ, expressed amazement at the skill and genius of young Howell, and not only gave high approval to the workmanship
and tonal qualities, but congratulated
the church on its good fortune in securing such an instrument at so reasonable cost. The builder's family are parishioners of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Dixon, and Mr. Sperbeck's position as yearly maintenance caretaker for the organs of the Episcopal Cathedral, Davenport, and the First Christian Church of the same city, gives his endorsement a happy value in this instance.

Tuesday evening will be the first public hearing for the organ. Preparations are being made for a capacity audience, in spite of weather conditions, since interest in and admiration for what a "home boy" has achieved will bring many beyond the Christian membership. If the limited seating of the church auditorium proves insufficient, a second concert will be held soon.

In the Dedication Service, the vocal numbers have been under the direction of Miss Ona Floto, Church
Chorister for several years, with Mrs.
Morrill, recently installed as organist, playing all accompaniments,
in addition to the opening organ-solo
and offertory. The service will open promptly at 7:30.

EXTEND PROBE OF SANITARY DIST. TO TWO PARK BOARDS

Grand Jury is Looking for Graft in Chicago
Park Affairs

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Investigation of the Chicago Sanitary District for evidences of patronage and payroll padding was extended today
to the Lincoln and South Park Boards.

Fifteen state legislators were to appear before the special grand jury
in connection with the payroll investigation as Frank J. Loesch, First Assistant State's Attorney, planned to sift what he said is the awarding of contracts by the two park
boards without bids.

One of the contracts to be scrutinized is that for construction of the north section of the Soldier Field Stadium. Loesch said the grand jury will want President Edward J.
Kelly and Commissioners Igoe, Bain
and Behan of the South Park Board
to explain why the John W. Griffith Construction Company was given the contract for that section of the stadium.

To Probe Contracts

Loesch said the Griffith Company
bid $1,300,000 while Avery Brundage bid $980,000 for the same work in August, 1925.

Then there is the Lincoln Park
Board order authorizing the Strauss Engineering Company to proceed with plans for a new bridge across Ogden Slip on the outer drive.
The estimated cost is $6,000,000 of which the Strauss Company is to receive 7 1/2 per cent, or a fee of about $450,000. The city engineering department, said Loesch, has done
similar work for less money.

Aside from the payroll phase, several jobs of the Sanitary District
also are to be investigated, including a four mile bridge path along the north branch of the drainage canal.
President Howard W. Elmore has been asked to appear before the jury
with records for the $1,000,000 project, which is not yet completed.

Loesch said he will ask the legislators when they appear: "What work
did you do for the money you received from the District and how did you come to be on the payroll?"

Names in Index

Their names were contained in a card index file turned over by T.
J. Crowe, former president of the district. President Elmore also has turned over to prosecutors the "A to Z" card index of employees and former employees.

Prosecutors said a study of the file indicated Crowe's appointees
survived the recent drastic payroll
reductions after the November election. Recently, however, the new administration has effectively replaced the payroll, prosecutors explained.

Some of the legislators listed as
"patrons," "inspectors," "assistant attorneys," etc., never received the checks shown to have been issued and cashed, Loesch indicated.
Mrs. Sarah Bord Harley, Democratic State Representative from Monmouth, Ill., was listed as a water level investigator at $175 a month.

"I have never been employed by the sanitary district," said Mrs. Harley. "I have never recommended any one for a position there on. I have never received a pay check and have never signed a paper of any description connected with the sanitary district."

SEARCH IN DENIAL

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 28.—(AP)—If Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield is asked to explain his alleged endorsement of Attorney Samuel Scholes of Springfield on the Chicago Sanitary District payroll, he will answer that his endorsement is forged.
Senator Searcy was approached two years ago, he said last night, and asked if he wanted a job "without work" in the district, which he
"promptly and emphatically declined." A year or more ago, he continued, a former Springfield girl in Chicago asked for a letter of endorsement for a stenographic job on the

Copy of Dixon Telegraph Sixty Years Old Found

H. U. Bardwell dropped in today with a copy of the Dixon Telegraph
dated Thursday, January 30, 1868, sixty years ago Wednesday. The place of publication was the Nachusa Block,
second floor, over Alexander & Kiwell's Hardware store. In the long list of advertisers the Alexander-Kiwell store is the only one which is still a going concern, but there appear many names which are familiar to Dixon people. Among the advertisers are the Lee County National Bank
(now the City National Bank) with Joseph Crawford President and Samuel C. Ellis, Cashier; Joseph Utley, merchant; Esdall and Crabtree, attorneys; Jason C. Ayres, real estate; McPherson & Bovey, dealers in lumber and grain; Charters & Trusdell,
attorneys; the Dixon Cornet Band,
Prof. J. F. O. Smith, leader; Dr.
Charles Hunt; C. Brookner, mill
work; Henry J. Drew, dealer in rifles,

BOATS RUSHING
TO RESCUE OF
TWO BIG SHIPS

A British Freighter is Minus Rudder and
Sends Out SOS

Aboard Coast Guard Cutter Tampa, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Indications that the disabled British steamer Silver Maple had been able to make repairs
to her steering gear was received today in the first radio message received from the vessel by the Tampa.
It said that the Silver Maple was proceeding at a speed of seven miles per hour. The message also said that the northwest gale was moderating
and that the barometer was rising.

New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Two Coast Guard cutters were racing to the aid of a ship in distress 700 miles east of Boston today and a tug was seeking another disabled craft between Bermuda and the Azores.

Meanwhile hope faded for the safety of the steam trawler, Seiner,
a week overdue at Croton, Conn.,
from the Georges Banks.

Fighting their way through snow
squalls and a strong west, northwest
wind, which sometimes blew a full gale, the cutters Mojave and Tampa were seeking the British freighter Silver Maple in answer to her SOS
sent out Saturday afternoon saying
she was helpless with disabled steering gear.

The Mojave, which was about 60 miles ahead of the Tampa, is expected to reach the position of the disabled ship about 1 o'clock tomorrow.
The Silver Maple, a craft of 5,300 tons, built a year ago and owned by the Silver Line, Ltd. was westbound for New York. She carried a crew of 50.

Word received at Lloyd's London
office from Horta in the Azores said
a tug had been dispatched to search for the Italian freighter Capo Vado
which was apparently in distress
about midway between the Azores
and Bermuda.

JENNY DOLLY IN HOSPITAL

Paris, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Jenny Dolly,
one of the Dolly Sisters, American dancing team, underwent an operation for appendicitis today. The operation was stated to have been successful and the dancer was said to be doing as well as could be expected.

SLIPPERY ROADS CAUSE OF AUTO MISHAPS SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd
Taylor, Mr. and Mrs.
Hettinger Injured

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Taylor and ten year old son of this city, were badly shaken up and their car considerably damaged Sunday afternoon
in an accident which was attributed to slippery paving. Mr. and Mrs.
Carl David of 745 Brinton Avenue, riding in a touring car, had turned the corner west at Galena avenue
and First street when their touring car skidded and crashed into the Ford coupe in which Mr. and Mrs.
Taylor and son were passengers. The boy was thrown through the windshield from the force of the impact
and his parents were considerably shaken up. The boy wore a leather cap and coat, which saved him from being badly cut from the broken glass. The Taylor car was so badly damaged that it had to be taken to a garage.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hettinger, 1121
Third street, were badly shaken up and Mrs. Hettinger sustained painful bruises about the head about 5:30
last evening when their car was struck on the Rock Island road about four miles west of Dixon. They were returning home from Harmon
when another car in which three young men were passengers, crashed heaven into their sedan. Mrs. Hettinger was thrown against the windshield. Mr. Hettinger sustained slight bruises and both were badly shaken up.

The other car bore Illinois license plates 875-481, issued to Harold Meurer, 602 West Third street. It was reported that one of the young men in the Meurer car was badly cut
by broken glass.

Charges Wife with Drinking, Cruelty

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 28.—(AP)— Replying to his wife's charges of drunkenness and cruelty in an answer
to her bill for divorce of file in Circuit Court today, R. W. Vredenburg, wealthy Springfield lumber merchant, charges her with habitually
drinking intoxicating liquor, cruelty,
and profane language.

On one occasion, Vredenburg's
answer said, he was "forced to strike
the complainant with his fist on account of a sudden agony of pain
when he was struck and kicked by her without provocation."

Mrs. Vredenburg, he declared,
purchased elaborate liquor services,
and served intoxicating liquor to him
and to guests. He was several times compelled to hold his wife to restrain her from committing physical assaults upon him, he said.

Mrs. Irene Vredenburg, has also filed a bill for injunction against her husband's brother and partner, to prevent him from transferring her husband's property to his name.

HONEST TAXI DRIVER

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Finding $500 in crisp new $20 bills in a wallet left in his taxi, Ralph Campbell, chauffeur for a Peoria cab company, recalled the passenger who he thought had lost it, returned the money to him, refused a reward and then offered to pay the taxi company
for the extra mileage used in returning the wallet.

Mrs. Durkes' Paper Read at Dixon Club a Treat

The members of the Community Service Department of the Dixon Women's Club may justly feel proud of the splendid program which they arranged for last Saturday's meeting.

The program was opened with two vocal solos, which were beautifully given by Mrs. Willard Thompson, accompanied by Mrs. Lloyd Davies at the piano. Mrs. Thompson's lovely voice always adds much pleasure to any entertainment.

Mrs. Durkes' own paper on the "History of Early Chicago" was one of intense interest to the large audience of 100, 30 or more guests, and club members.

In this paper Mrs. Durkes told of early Chicago and its very rapid growth. She mentioned names of many Dixon citizens and the prominent parts they had played in the enlargement of Chicago. Dixon people feel they may be justly proud of this fact. Mrs. Durkes' personal history added much interest to this already interesting paper.

In writing this paper, Mrs. Durkes cooperated with Mrs. McVaine, former librarian of the Chicago Historical Society.

Mrs. Durkes spoke of the recent visit of the well-known Clara Briggs, famous cartoonist, formerly of Dixon and of his meeting with his old time playmates.

Mrs. Durkes' charming personality and splendid delivery of this fine paper made this program one of genuine pleasure as well as an educational one.

The hostesses for the day served dainty refreshments during the social hour.

Members of the club who have not brought their jellies, jams or ball of carpet rags for the wounded war veterans will please leave them at Ware's Hardware store, during the week.

Editor's Note—Mrs. Durkes has promised Miss Patrick, society editor of the Telegraph, that she will permit excerpts from her paper to be published in the Telegraph at some future date. * * * This paper or extracts therefrom, has much of interest for Dixon residents.)

Shepherds' Class in Pleasant Meeting

The Shepherd's Sunday School class of the Grace Evangelical church held a meeting Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Wentling on Boyd Street, and there was a good attendance, about forty being present. After the business meeting and the Scripture and song in unison, Mrs. Russell Nye gave an enjoyable reading. A feature of the meeting was the interesting address by Rev. Frank Brandell on "Seven Day Adventism."

After the business meeting and program Mrs. Murray Wentling and Mrs. Raymond Messner, who acted as hostesses, served very delicious refreshments, during the pleasant social hour.

KINGDOM-MT. UNION AID SOCIETY TO MEET

The Bidding: South bids one spade and all pass.

Deciding the Play: West leads 3 of hearts and dummy takes with king of hearts. Declarer now leads 7 of spades. Should he finesse?

The Error: Declarer takes with ace of spades or king of spades.

The Correct Method: Declarer has one losing heart. In this illustration, the finesse should be attempted, for if declarer's finesse loses and opponents lead a trump, the losing heart can still be ruffed in dummy and game be secured.

The Principle: Finesse trumps if necessary, when holding sufficient trumps in dummy to continue ruffing even if finesse loses.

The WOMAN'S DAY

ALLENE JUDGE

"Do labor laws bring hardship to wage-earning women?" asks Lorine Pruette in "The Woman's Journal," reporting the results of the two years' investigation which the Women's Bureau has done on the National Woman's Party charge that working women are so handicapped by discriminatory labor laws. The Bureau interviewed 1200 women in all lines of industry. One significant paragraph reads—

HERE'S PROOF

"In four states with laws limiting women's working weeks to 48 or 50 hours, information was secured from 156 establishments employing 24,216 women. In only two of these 156 establishments was there any indication that the employment of women had been lessened by the passing of the hour law. Just nine women were affected out of the total of more than 24,000 women who might have been."

"In the fact of such evidence, can any reasonable person get agitated over the hardships imposed upon women workers by hour laws?"

The answer would seem to be no.

LAUGH, CLOWN, LAUGH!

"Happy Jimmy Murphy," who has made his living, and a fairly good one, by clowning it for many years, is seeking a divorce on the grounds that his marriage is making it impossible for him to laugh, and that since laughing is his stock in trade and its lack impairs his professional advancement, he must be free in an environment where he can laugh once more.

THE OLD BOLOGY

We have been so sopped up with the "Laugh, clown, laugh, even though your heart be breaking, laugh, clown, laugh," version of being a clown, that it's just taken for granted that to be really good in the profession one must laugh with a tear behind the smile. Still, Jimmy Murphy's theory sounds fairly sensible.

What would happen if all the wives in the world who have lost their ability to laugh through their marriage could be divorced? Still, if for them, maybe it's different.

PLANE FOR EVERY GAIL

"I look forward to the day when women will be piloting their own planes in the same casual manner as they drive their own cars on the highways. The progress of aviation country clubs proves this."

So says Amelia Earhart, first woman to fly across the Atlantic. Which is a rather pleasing prospect for the jaded maiden with money; it means less, however, to the $18 a week girl casting about for some neat but not gaudy diversion.

THIS LOVE BUSINESS

Mercedes Glitzke, the English typist who swam the channel—one of them at least is about to marry a British soldier in India who saw her picture in a paper and to whom she became engaged without ever seeing him. They met after a two years' engagement the other day, and the engagement continued.

Which only proves again that this funny business of falling in love is largely in the mind of the lover and love. The idea is planted, the twain are ripe for the picking, and it's about as easy to make one person the object of affection as another. Disillusioning? No necessarily.

JOHN AND FLOSSIE

Every picture seen so far of the two who are rather humorously known as "America's Most Famous Sweethearts," John Coolidge and Florence Trumbull, show the celebrants in two either in, or about to get in, or just leaving Miss Florence's sport racer. Young John doesn't have a car; he doesn't earn enough yet, but his fiancée is a governor's daughter, and the car, along with other things, is just taken for granted.

Not that we haven't been assured again and again that the governor's daughter is an eminently sensible young lady who can cook and all that and who is perfectly willing to struggle along on her railroad clerk fiancée's salary—still, one can but hope that young John Coolidge's courage must be pretty stalwart stuff and match that of thousands of other young men who dare take the matrimonial leap.

Miss Dorothy Coffey Married on Wednes.

Dixon friends will be interested in the following item from the Sycamore Tribune of Jan. 25th, as the bride Miss Dorothy Coffey, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Phelan of Tenth street, is well known here and has many friends in Dixon:

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Coffey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Coffey, to Edwin Hawkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hawkins, was celebrated at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday at St. Mary's parsonage. Reverend P. Masterson performing the ceremony.

Miss-Blanche Coffey, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Emil Hawkins, brother of the groom, was best man. The bride wore an ensemble of brown satin with a hat to match. The bridal bouquet was of buff colored roses; the bridesmaid wore green and carried pink roses.

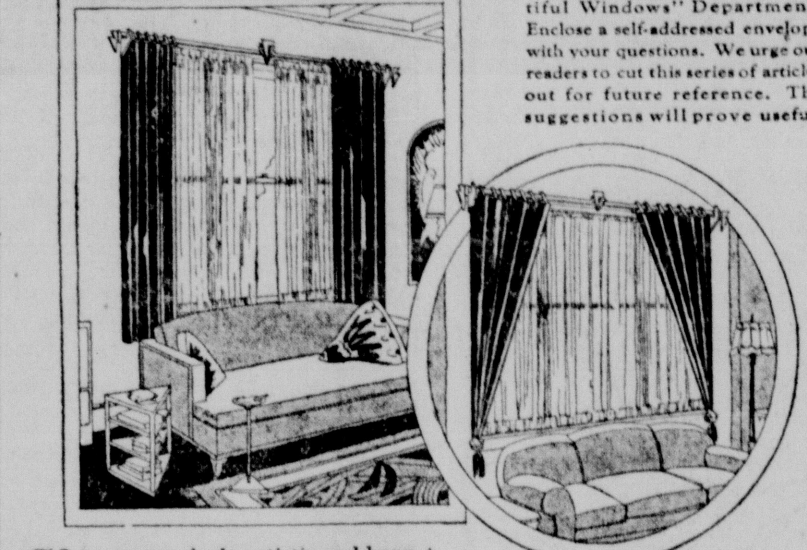

The members of the immediate families were present, after which a three course dinner was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Coffey. Covers were laid for fourteen. The bridal cake was decorated in yellow. The table decorations were also in yellow. Mrs. Coffey was assisted in serving the dinner by Mrs. Harry Arrington and Mrs. Charles Viner.

Beautiful windows

BY C. W. KIRSCH

Answers to your individual window and door draping problems can be obtained by addressing the Editor of the "Beautiful Windows" Department. Enclose a self-addressed envelope with your questions. We urge our readers to cut this series of articles out for future reference. The suggestions will prove useful.

SO many genuinely artistic and beautiful effects have been created in the so-called "Art Moderne" that no woman can be blamed for wanting her home to reflect, at least in some details, this modern decorative trend. The problem is how to get the desired atmosphere of modernism and at the same time avoid extremes which are neither practical nor in harmony with other furnishings.

One simple solution is reached by treating only the windows in the modernistic style and leaving the remainder of the room as it is. Many exquisite new designs are available in modernistic drapery hardware—either aluminum or wood poles. These represent the last word in decorative fashion, yet they harmonize with all that conservative taste approves. Even your present draperies and curtains may be used if they are re-hung to carry out the modernistic motif.

There are several different ways of handling modernistic drapery and curtain treatments, all of which are effective.

Both draperies and curtains may hang straight from the rods, creating straight up and down lines that blend beautifully with the geometric designs in modernistic furnishings. This effect is illustrated in the drawing above, at the left.

With draperies hung as in this illustration, the glass curtains are sometimes shirred at both top and bottom, then brought together tightly at the center with a band of curtain material, creating a triangle effect that is distinctly modern.

A third treatment—entirely new and charming indeed—is illustrated above at the right. Draperies reach only to the sill, and are caught back tightly and held with an ornamental hold-back.

Drapery materials for use in a modernistic setting may include modern cretonnes, linens and damasks, as well as coarse, loosely woven fabrics in patterns from the Frenchman Rodier.

Glass curtain materials have not followed the modernistic mode to the extent that drapery materials have; curtains may be made of plain voile, gauze, French marquisette, embroidered voiles or marquisettes, in ivory or ecru shades that harmonize with the room.

DeKalb on a ten days' trip, their destination not revealed. They will return to a lovely home at 515 Elmwood street which has been recently built by the groom and is all ready for occupancy.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins are one of the most popular young couples in Sycamore and their many friends extend to them a world of good wishes.

Presbyterian W. M. S. With Mrs. Col. Dysart

The Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church met at the home of Mrs. Collins Dysart Jan. 25. Mrs. Frank Young, who presided, opened the meeting with a short prayer service for missionaries in the foreign fields. Mrs. Raymond and Mrs. Durkes read letters of interest to the society.

It was decided to organize a mission study class which would hold an all day meeting with a picnic luncheon at Mrs. Durkes, March 1.

The annual meeting will be held in February at which time reports will be given from all branches of the society. Mrs. F. Edwards, Mrs. B. Lennon and Mrs. H. A. Roe were appointed to serve at the nominating committee.

Miss Agnes Raymond gave a very interesting paper on China. In spite of the continual change and upset conditions there the missionaries have guarded the churches and their work goes steadily on. They help the government whenever they can in supporting measures for the betterment of the Chinese people.

Dainty refreshments added to the pleasure of the social hour.

Child Born to Maharane Holkar, Formerly Nancy Miller

Paris, Jan. 28—(AP)—Maharane Devi Sharmista Holkar, who was Nancy Ann Miller of Seattle, gave birth to a girl last Saturday night. Both the baby and the mother are doing well.

Only a few close friends knew of the event although a report that the Maharane expected a child was circulated last November.

The Maharane and Maharaja had hoped the child would be a boy but there was no lack of joy at the good health of the mother and baby. The Maharane preferred to stay in the quiet of her own home here where she could be safely guarded from the outside world.

H. L. DuVall Married in Chicago Jan. 19th

The Elburn Herald of January 24th, gives the following account of wedding of Miss LaVerne Tierney and H. L. DuVall, who were married in Chicago. The bride was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John DuVall, of Dixon. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. DuVall, of Chicago.

BITS OF WASHINGTON GOSSIP

By JOHN H. BYERS

Secretary to Congressman W. R. Johnson

Washington, Jan. 25—We are having our first bit of winter. It has rained and snowed all day—freezing as fast as it fell. Trees and the shrubbery around the capital look very beautiful, like a Christmas tree. Washington thermometers at 3 o'clock this morning registered 28 above zero.

Oscar Underwood is dead. Tonight his remains lie in his home at Woodlawn, Va., a little city near Mt. Vernon, the home of Washington. His death was a shock to the people in the political life at the capital. He had been ill for some months, but his end was not expected so soon. For twenty years Mr. Underwood was a power in politics. He was a great statesman—a loyal party man, and a great leader. I first saw Mr. Underwood the first time I came to Washington in 1912, as private secretary to former Congressman McKenzie. Mr. McKenzie and Congressman Underwood were very good friends. At that time Underwood was majority leader of the House. He was master of the situation. I recall that one day the session became quite stormy. Men began to look like several of the members would settle their difficulties with their fists. "Where was Underwood?" several members cried. Soon the pages got busy and from one of the cloak rooms walked Underwood, the leader of the House. He walked down the aisle toward the speaker's rostrum, he squared away and began to speak. In a very short while quiet reigned and the difficulties were settled and peace again reigned. By the very presence of Underwood, by his gentle words, his quiet manner, nearly 425 members settled down and the work of legislating commenced again as if nothing had happened. It was about the first time I had looked upon Oscar Underwood. Since that time I knew the member from Alabama was a real leader of men. When he went to the Senate I had occasion to watch him perform in the upper branch of Congress. He was a leader there, too. He was frequently conferred with by his colleagues. Other Republican Senators conferred with him. I heard a great debate between Underwood and the late President Harding, who at the time was a Senator from Ohio. I shall never forget that debate. It was a battle of words, but not as a man—yet no man who achieved greatness without his critics, his enemies. I answer this by saying, Christ was crucified, and what man among us is better than Christ. He went about doing good to all men. And there are those who do not understand Him.

Occasionally I walk over to the Senate dining room for my lunch—especially when I am with some friend who is visiting Washington. I do that because I can observe Senators at lunch. The other noon former Adjutant General of Illinois, Frank S. Dickson, and I took lunch there. Mr. Dickson, was for some time the private secretary of the late Senator Medill McCormick, and was eating lunch at the Senate dining room when I was there. But we went because as I have said, to observe the Senators at lunch. During the thirty minutes we observed twenty-five Senators—among them was the mighty Borah, the quiet Smoot and the powerful Warren—all getting along in years, but mighty in the Senate. All three the head of important committees—Borah, of Foreign Affairs, Smoot of Finance and Warren of Appropriations. Senator Copeland of New York was there, wearing his red carnation. Nye, of the northland was there. Glass of Virginia, a leader in debates; Bleasie, the orator from South Carolina and Overman, white-haired, of North Carolina. And last, but not at all the least, came Hiram Johnson of sunny California. And over there sat "Bob" LaFollette, Jr., not at all like his distinguished father. And so on. It was a pleasant thirty minutes.

Tonight the members of the Illinois delegation, with their wives, sisters and daughters, are dining at the Mayflower Hotel, guests of Senator and Mrs. Charles S. Deneen. This afternoon Mrs. Deneen gave a reception in honor of Mrs. Glenn, wife of the junior Senator from Illinois.

February 3rd, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick will entertain with a dinner and many from Illinois will be her guests.

During the past year New York City, Y. M. C. A. had 30,000 members, representing 64 nationalities, of which 75 percent were Protestant, 13 per cent Catholic and 7 per cent Jewish.

The South American continent is fourth in size among the great land masses of the world.

Berlin, Germany, will place a stamp-vending machine near every mail box in that city. Most of the machines will be placed on trolleyway posts. The vendors have stamps in rolls and when a magnetic coin tester permits a coin to unlock a crank a stamp is released.

The Church of England, quite unlike the other churches of England, cannot alter its teachings without the permission of Parliament.

Churches to Support Chicago World's Fair

Chicago, Jan. 28—(AP)—Recognizing the "World's Fair of 1933" as an "opportunity for spiritual blessing of Chicago and to the world," the Chicago Church federation has pledged it the heartiest support. Walter R. Mee, executive secretary declared in his annual report to the federation here today.

Mr. Mee reviewed the federation's work in 1928. "During 1928," he said, "many vital events for the welfare of Chicago were registered in the church Federation's calendar. The Kellogg peace pact was pledged the most cordial support and it was heralded as a means of world peace."

"The World's fair in 1933 was recognized as an opportunity for spiritual blessing to Chicago and to the world. Chaplains were furnished for all meetings of the city council in co-operation with the Chicago Rabbinical association."

"An event of national importance was the published results of a year's study of milk conditions in and about Chicago entitled 'The Milk Shed of Chicago' under the auspices of the Commission on church and industry and the department of research and education of the federal council of churches. The significance of this study became immediately apparent in all quarters and has resulted in extensive negotiations to relieve the crisis. Justice for the dairy farmers was the keynote as it was recognized that they were the ones suffering the most."

Race relations is one of the fields in which notable advancement is being made. This is true nationally as well as locally, and Chicago has reason to be proud of the work of the commission on interracial relations of the Chicago Church Federation. Race relations Sunday was observed February 12 and 43 interchanges of pulpits, white and colored ministers."

City Not Entitled to Fees of Its P. M.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 28—(AP)—Cities are not entitled to any fees collected by police magistrates, nor are they entitled to please such officers on salary basis. Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom said in an opinion sent today to Benjamin S. Bell, state's attorney at Rock Island, Ill.

DEAR FRIENDS:—

I've just had an awful time finding a pencil to write this ad for today.

Since we've moved into the new offices (where) I always have to stop and think where I'll find things. It does make a difference, you know.

Maybe I imagine it, but it almost seems to me we do an even better job of cleaning clothes.

I wonder if you'll notice any difference.

PROGRESS AND SHADOWS.

Three separate prizes for non-stop flights around the world have been offered in the last few days. At the same time, a western millionaire offers $25,000 to any man who can communicate with any one of the planets in our solar system. A British statesman, furthermore, predicts that 100 years from now we shall have such knowledge of obscure physical processes that we can change the climate of any part of the world to suit our tastes.

The world, beyond doubt, is moving somewhere pretty rapidly. We are doing things that never before were deemed possible; furthermore, we are beginning to think that there will be no limit whatever to our future achievement. No dream is too fantastic to be given belief. The wildest imagination is not accused of being unbalanced. We are ready to believe anything.

Yet, side by side with this breath-taking advance, there exist strange patches of darkness. A firm belief in witchcraft has just been uncovered in a populous eastern state. A lady astrologist is commonly reported to be the chief adviser of a western governor. An aged and blind Holy Roller pastor in the middle west marries an 11-year-old girl, with her parents' approval. A southern state prepares to bring criminal proceedings against a backwoods school-teacher who allowed a book on evolution to stray into his school library.

These things develop hand in hand with the advances in sciences and invention. No sooner do we get through patting ourselves on the back for a new intellectual achievement than some bit of age-old superstition or ignorance pops up to make us reconsider.

It is quite possible that we are advancing too fast at the top and too slowly at the bottom. To be sure, that is the way the human race has always made its progress. But it so happens that modern conditions have made it supremely important that that system be altered.

In the old days society could put up with a great deal of submerged darkness. It didn't matter how ignorant the bulk of the people were, because the bulk of the people didn't count for anything. They had no voice in the conduct of affairs, and the tasks they had to do could be done just as well in darkness as in light.

But we have changed all that. First we established democratic government, under which the most downtrodden, benighted citizen has as much to say about his nation's course of action as the highest. Then our scientists began to invent a great variety of new tools which completely revolutionized every-day life. Ignorance and superstition are not to be tolerated anywhere in a world of automobiles, radio, television and large-scale industrialism. They are altogether too dangerous.

The universal education which our forefathers insisted on establishing in this country is probably the most important institution we have. It is the implement with which we must dispel these black shadows that dot our countryside. If we fail to do it we shall run into a fearful mess. To paraphrase Lincoln's famous remark, the nation cannot exist half ignorant and half enlightened.

The four big men of the movie industry are, respectively, a tailor, fur dresser, glove salesman and penny arcade operator. Maybe that's the reason behind some of the splendid movies we've seen lately.

Said Clowny, "Look what you have done. You've made those Trouble Tots all run. I really think it's rather mean to scare them all away. They're small couldn't hurt a thing. What sort of trouble could they bring? I'll bet they called to see us, and would gladly join in play."

The giant then said, "Me, oh my, I do not think you'd care to try to play with all the Trouble Tots. They're bad as they can be. They always get into a mess. You'd understand it all, I guess, if you just knew the crazy tricks that they have played on me."

"The giant's right," wee Scouty cried. "It's better that they've run to hide. We've never seen those tots before, and we do not know of all the trouble they can cause. 'Tis always best to think and pause before you make new friends. I'm glad that we have let them go."

And then they closed the small hut door and planned to have a meal.

once more. The giant and the Tins sat right down to quite a treat. When they were through they didn't lose much time, but promptly took a snooze. It's funny how it always makes you sleepy when you eat.

The Trouble Tots, of course, were mad. They thought about the scare they'd had and one of them exclaimed, "Let's go right back and play a trick. We'll nail the doors and windows tight. 'Twill keep those Tins out of sight." Another ran right up and said, "They're sleeping. Come, be quick!"

They crept up real close to the house. Each one was quiet as a mouse. Their boards were held across the door, and 'cross the window, too. Then one queer tot drove nails in fast. He shouted, "There, those boards will last." And then they all jumped up and ran because their task was through.

(The giant springs a surprise in the next story.)

THE INAUGURAL PAGEANT

From Washington to Hoover

BY ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

(Associated Press Feature Writer)

Washington — (AP) — Through a countryside where steel trains thunder and airplanes and motor cars today roar a tocsin of twentieth-century speed George Washington 140 years ago made a seven-day journey over mud roads from Mount Vernon to New York city to become the first president of the United States.

It was the wish of General Washington, leaving the beloved seclusion of his estate on the Potomac, to avoid all semblance of parade, but the adulation of the people of the young republic made that impossible.

Groups of citizens and detachments of militia escorted him the entire distance, and he rode under triumphal arches into Philadelphia and other cities. The ladies of the period showered him with flowers and rendered with colonial modesty, sonatas to the commander-in-chief of the continental army.

April 30, 1789, Washington, the federalist and Virginia gentleman, took the oath of office on the gallery of old Federal hall in the presence of a "immense concourse of citizens." The people were assembled in Broad street on Manhattan island, once the balliwick of the fiery Dutch governor, Peter Stuyvesant, and now the financial center of the world.

The New York Daily Advertiser in its issue of May 1, 1789, gives this contemporary account of the inaugural ceremonies:

"At 9 a. m. the clergy of different denominations assembled their congregations in their respective places of worship and offered up prayers for the safety of the President."

"About 12 o'clock the procession moved from the house of the President in Cherry street through Dock street and Broad to Federal hall in the following order: Colonel Lewis, supported by two officers; Captain Stokes with a troop of horse artillery; Major Van Horne; grenadiers under Captain Horrin; German grenadiers, the infantry of the brigade; Major Christie, sheriff, the committee of the senate, the President and his suite, the committee of representatives, Hon. Mr. Jay, General Knox, Chancellor Livingston and several other gentlemen of distinction. Then followed a multitude of citizens.

"His excellency was conducted into the hall and in the senate chamber was introduced to both houses of congress. Immediately afterward, accompanied by the two houses, he went into the gallery, where he took the oath of office administered by R. R. Livingston, chancellor of New York."

"The chancellor proclaimed him President, there was a discharge of 13 guns and loud, repeated shouts from the crowd. The president bowed to the people, and the air again rang with their acclamations."

"His excellency then retired to the senate chamber, where he made his inaugural address. The president, vice president and both houses went to St. Paul chapel, where divine services were performed. After the service the president was escorted to his house and the citizens returned to their homes."

"In the evening fireworks were exhibited. Betwixt the fort and Bowling Green stood conspicuous a superb and brilliant painting in the center of which was the portrait of the President represented under the emblem of fortitude. The houses of the Spanish and French ministers were illuminated in elegant manner."

FOURTH WEEK OF ASSEMBLY LIKELY TO BE BUSY ONE

"Open Season" on Legislation is Thought to be Coming

BY B. P. BOLTON

(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 28—(AP)—Internal demands for investigation and external requests for legislation promise to make the fourth week of the 56th General Assembly, starting Tuesday, a busy one.

It might be said that the open season on legislation—as well as legislators—has arrived. Members returning to Springfield will find more than a hundred bills already introduced awaiting their action. They will find, as well, recommendations of several organizations to which they must give heed; and to add to their joy, Governor Louis L. Emmerson will probably have some of his inaugural recommendations transformed into bills to be considered with all possible expediency.

Committees will probably start functioning in both houses. Senate committees are already named and have fifty-eight legislative proposals ready for consideration. Speaker David Shanahan is expected to name house committees—a task he had hoped to have completed earlier this week—as one of the first items of business, and these will find some sixty bill ready.

Working on Gas Tax

Governor Emmerson, it is said, is working on the gasoline tax bill, which will call for a tax of three cents a gallon on gasoline of which at least two-thirds will go to the state. It has been estimated that this tax will net $27,000,000 a year and a part of this sum will go to counties for the construction of secondary roads.

Also under preparation by the executive department is the bill proposing to print all issues submitted to voters on a single ballot, rather than allotting a separate ballot to constitutional amendment proposals and bond issues.

It has not been indicated whether action will be taken during the coming week on the demand of Rep. R. J. Branson that graft charges against house members in connection with the padded payroll of the Chicago Sanitary District be aired. Whether this resolution becomes the subject for debate probably depends upon the insistence shown by Rep. Branson, who is pushing it.

In Danville the first part of the coming week farmers of the state are gathering. They, undoubtedly, will have some word to convey their representatives.

Labor will hold another meeting at Springfield early next week, considering the measures they will support and oppose. Motor bus operators will stage an "indignation meeting" in Chicago Monday to organize against the proposed mileage tax on buses. Motor bus operators are especially aroused, sensing a tax of approximately $730 a year on a bus traveling 200 miles a day.

Another lobby expected to start functioning at an early date is that alleged to have spent $25,000 in causing the mysterious double disappearance of Senate Bill 22 in the closing days of the last session.

Aired Lobby Story.

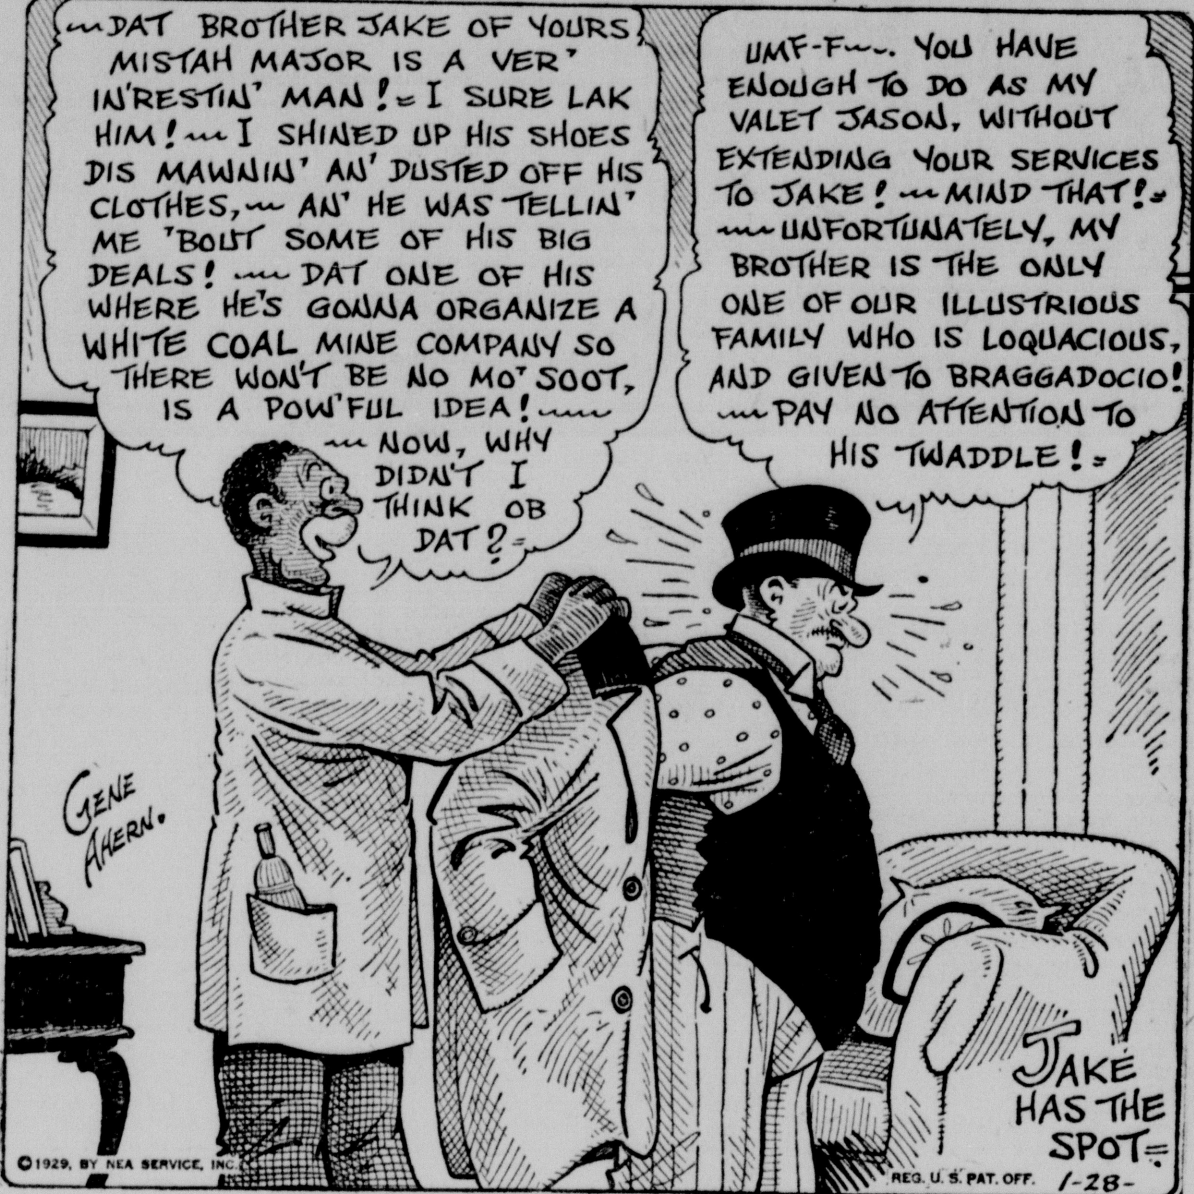

The story of this lobby was aired last week by Rep. Thomas O'Grady of Chicago, when he introduced a duplicate bill and asked that it be shoved ahead on the legislative calendar.

Disappearance of Senate Bill 22, providing for the recording of conditional sales as a protection to the "payment plan" buyer, occurred just before the 55th general assembly adjourned sine die. Passed by the upper branch where it was introduced, it came to the house but failed to appear on the calendar in its regular order of business. An investigation disclosed that it was not in the clerk's office.

A certified copy was obtained, the bill brought up in the house, amended, and passed. It was then sent back to the senate for concurrence in the house amendments, but either never reached the secretary of the senate or disappeared from his office. The final night of the session, a committee of the house searched

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

BY AHERNS

fruitlessly for the bill, but it was never found.

Now three bills have been presented with provisions almost identical with those of Senate Bill 22. If O'Grady's charges are true, that finance companies over the state contributed to the lobby fund, a newly formed lobby may soon be expected.

The first order of business next week is consideration of the bills designed to aid Cook county complete the reassessment of taxable property and clear the way for collection of 1928 taxes all over the state. These bills were advanced to second reading so that they could be considered soon. They become effective as soon as passed and signed by the governor.

PAVING THE WAY
The state of Oklahoma is notorious for its muddy roads. Everyone wants to build paved roads, but something always comes up, and it seldom ever is done. A legislative committee was discussing the subject one day, when a fat assemblyman rose to make a speech.

"Now boys," he pleaded, "we must get out of the mud. Our fair state has lagged in this respect long enough. We must work in harmony. We must iron out our little differences. We must forget personal feelings. Now all together, boys, let us put our heads together and make a concrete road."

SEVERAL STARS OF CONFERENCE MAY BE BARRED

Old Man Ineligibility is Threatening to Cast His Shadow Soon

BY PAUL R. MICKELSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Moving up behind the smoke screen of semester examinations, old man ineligibility threatens to cast his shadow across the championship hopes of Big Ten basketball teams this week.

So busy were the hoop artists in attempting to repel his attack that only three teams in the conference had games scheduled. They were Chicago and Iowa, which meet at Chicago; and Ohio State, which invades the Army in an intercollegiate combat. Both games were programmed for Saturday.

It was the third successive week of comparative dullness in the campaign, which breaks out again February 9 with a three game card.

Each team in the race was understood to have at least one star dangerously near the ineligibility line, and when the results of the examinations are known, the three foremost contenders, Michigan, Wisconsin and Purdue, may be stripped of much of their power.

Michigan In Lead

Michigan was idle again last week, but bounded into undisputed leadership in the championship scramble when Wisconsin upset Purdue, 31 to 26. The Wolverines have won four straight games and have not been defeated, while Purdue and Wisconsin are deadlocked for second place with five victories and one defeat each. It was Michigan that spoiled Wisconsin's record. Therefore, Michigan had both moral and percentage leadership.

Ohio State went into fourth place by defeating Chicago, 40 to 30, in an experimental matinee show at Columbus Saturday.

Northwestern, which dropped out of the championship race with three straight defeats, seem to have found its pace again. The Wildcats hung up their third straight triumph Saturday night by edging out Notre Dame, 27 to 24, in a non-conference game at Evanston.

Iowa handed Creighton College of Omaha its first defeat of the season in another non-conference battle Saturday night. The score was 28 to 26. The Hawkeyes, fifth in the Big Ten race, showed good form, but were a little field for free throws. The game was the roughest ever played on the Iowa hardwood courts.

Purdue Best Scorers
Despite their setback by Wisconsin last week, "Stretch" Murphy and his Purdue mates are still far in front in the Big Ten basketball races for individual and team scoring honors.

Averaging almost 40 points a game, Purdue has piled up 236 points or 57 points more than its closest rival, Wisconsin. Murphy has averaged better than 12 points a game and has scored 80 points. His closest rival is also a Badger, Bud Foser, star guard.

THE CALL OF THE OUTDOORS

Bass and Rainbow
Mr. R. J. Meyer, of Appleton, Wis., has very decided opinions as to the comparative gameness of the rainbow trout and the small-mouth bass. The rainbow, he says, is by far the gamier. And Mr. Meyer has the perfect test. In a stream near his home are both rainbow trout and small-mouth bass. Using two flies, he frequently hooks one of each species. He says: "The rainbow does not care what the odds are. He can give the bass ounces and ounces and then down him every time. It matters not to the rainbow whether he has the dropper or the tail: the bass is always first to die." This is a real test.

Hard Luck
Charles J. Iven of Rochester, N. Y., tried for five years to land a diamond button tuna—a tuna that weighs over 150 pounds is called a diamond button tuna because angling clubs give such buttons to members who accomplish the feat. At the end of five years he hooked his monster fish. He landed it after a five hour fight. Just as he was landing the fish a shark came along and bit off the tuna's tail and a good part of the stern end of the fish. The remaining weighed 138 pounds. The missing piece was estimated to weigh 30 pounds. The tuna, however, did not merit a diamond button.

Ace Hudkins laments to his friends back home that he had been given the silent count by the New York Boxing Commission. He hasn't been officially suspended or ruled out by the commission. The commission has a better and safer way of doing these things. The commission just notifies confidentially the licensed matchmakers under its control not to hire certain fellows any more.

Hudkins says the word went out when William Muldoon turned him in to his colleagues as a "common far-room brawler" who did not fit in with the scheme in these days of society prize fighting.

The Ace, according to the story, blundered in making a bloody move out of his fight with Rene De Vos. The fight would have gone great in the St. Nick arena, but it wasn't staged there. It was smeared all over the rings in the swell Garden and there happened to be a house full of well rich people there to see a boxing match.

The swell rich people were attracted there by the novelty of seeing one of their leaders, Tony Biddle, make his debut as a manager in De Vos' corner and the Ace splattered up the whole party.

Thomas appeared at the Giant training camp with a case full of tennis racquets and a trunk packed with white flannels. McGraw fled the park to remove the strain on his temper. A few days later Thomas asked the boss if he might have a few days off to go to Miami.

"I have been invited to a house party and would like to play in the tennis tournament over there," he told Mac.

"I'll have Mr. Brannick get you a ticket. He's the traffic manager. The club will pay for it. We always treat our young men well," McGraw said.

Brannick got the ticket and handed it to the tennis demon. And when he looked at it he saw the ticket read home. And he had to use it.

SPECULATE ON HOOVER-SMITH MEET IN SOUTH

But Neither Intimates that They Will Come

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 28.—(AP)—President-elect Hoover said today he would be "most happy" to see former Governor Alfred E. Smith, who is spending part of his vacation time at Coral Gables, only a short distance from the Hoover home on Belle Isle. Mr. Hoover's statement, made in reply to a question from a newspaper correspondent, follows:

"By all means I should be glad if Governor Smith has the time to call. I should be most happy to see him."

Advised of Mr. Hoover's statement by telephone, the former New York Governor said he had no statement to make.

"Will you see Mr. Hoover?" he was asked.

"I said there was no statement," the Democratic leader replied. He added that he was interested, but that he was in Florida for a vacation and objected to newspaper correspondents continually calling him on the telephone.

"I would be glad to see you men in a group at any time," he said. An effort to bring the President-elect and Mr. Smith together through a third party was undertaken today by Hamilton Wright, press agent for Miami who called at Hoover headquarters. This request was flatly refused.

Hoover taking the position that they would not become a party to what they termed a "publicity stunt."

BY JAMES L. WEST
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Politicians and plain folks alike today awaited developments or a lack of them in the rather unique situation immediately vicinity of a President-elect and his defeated opponent.

There naturally was conjecture as to whether Herbert Hoover and Alfred E. Smith would furnish a climax to one of the greatest political struggles in American history by meeting for the first time, before, during or after the campaign.

The answer to this question rested with the President-elect or the former New York Governor or both and neither had given any intimation as to what the answer would be. Mr. Hoover maintained the silence that has enveloped him since his arrival last Tuesday at number 9 Belle Isle.

While Mr. Smith succeeded in keeping clear of newspapermen during his first day here and today was resting at the Miami Biltmore Hotel at Babels, a few miles away.

To an inquiry as to whether the Democratic standard bearer would call on the President-elect, William F. Kenny, life-long friend and traveling companion of Mr. Smith, said the members of the Smith party had not seen a newspaper in several days so did not know that Mr. Hoover was at Miami Beach.

Both Are Silent
The former Governor's first engagement today was just before noon with friends to map out a tentative program for his activities during his week or more stay at Coral Gables.

Tomorrow he will attend the horse races at the Hialeah track as the guest of his friend, Joseph M. Smoot, president of the Miami Jockey club.

The President-elect interrupted his vacation to turn to conferences with a rather formidable array of callers and during the greater part of the week which will engross his attention two days intervening before he resumes his fishing Wednesday among the Florida Keys.

While a number of party leaders are waiting to see the next Chief Executive it was stated officially at his executive offices that Mr. Hoover is determined to eschew politics in his discussions. It was explained that he

After Coach Alquist
Rock Island, Ill., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Harold "Shorty" Alquist, Augustana football coach, is considering a coaching offer from Western Illinois State Teachers College at Macomb, Ill.

Alquist's one year contract at Augustana expires June 1.

Sid Terris Renews Fight for Honors
New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Sid Terris, once regarded as the underdog lightweight champion of the world, renews his fight to get back among the contenders for Sammy Mandell's title when he meets Babe Herman, Pacific coast slugger, in a ten round match here tonight.

Two Fighting Jacks
Will Meet This Eve
Chicago, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A pair of fighting Jacks from Chicago, Jackie Fields and Jack McCarthy, battle for 10 rounds or less at Dexter Pavilion tonight for added recognition as outstanding contenders for Joe Dundee's somewhat shaky welterweight crown.

Fields, who recently defeated young Jack Thompson, the man who knocked out Dundee in a non-championship match, was a big favorite.

"Shuffle" Callahan, Chicago's southpaw middleweight bone-crusher, will meet Jack Kennedy of Detroit in the semi-windup.

Dixon Team Likely to Enter Tournament

The New Mallory Automatic Coil
Another Mallory Development That Automatically
Boosts the Spark for Starting!

The cause of hard starting can generally be traced to weak sparks, although the coil itself may not be defective. Weak sparks are caused by the starting motor draining the primary ignition circuit.

Heretofore, coils have been designed to operate from approximately eight volts, which is the voltage in the ignition system when the engine is running and generator charging.

The voltage of the battery drops when the starting motor is engaged, sometimes as low as four volts and even less, especially if the engine is cold and the oil in the crank case is stiff. Coils designed to operate from eight volts will produce WEAK sparks from low voltage, when HOT SPARKS are really needed.

The new MALLORY AUTOMATIC COIL automatically changes as soon as the starting motor is engaged, so as to produce extremely hot sparks from the low voltage, and as the engine starts, it changes automatically to operate from the higher voltage when the engine is running.

The MALLORY AUTOMATIC COIL serves the purpose of two coils—one for starting—one for running
—a feature found in no other coil.

Paulino Will Meet
Christner Feb. 22

New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Paulino Uzcudun and not Tom Heeney, will be matched against K. O. Christner, the tough Akron rubber worker, at Madison Square Garden Feb. 22 under revised plans of Tom McArdle, Garden matchmaker.

Christner made such a great showing against Jack Sharkey last week that McArdle planned to match him against Heeney. But the New Zealander has not yet made up his mind whether he is coming back to the ring. McArdle now hopes to be able to induce Paulino to accept the bout.

This Wampas Star From Film School

Josephine Dunn.....one of the thirteen Wampas Baby Stars. Her work was outstanding in "The Singing Fool."

By NEA Service.
Hollywood, Calif.—Josephine Dunn, one of the 13 lucky girls chosen as Wampas Baby Stars for 1929, got her start in Paramount's experimental school for actors and actresses.
But it was only after she signed a contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer that the blond beauty got a chance to do some real work. And she made the grade easily.
Josephine's work in Al Jolson's talkie success "The Singing Fool" was outstanding. But her first big success was as William Haines' leading lady in "Excess Baggage."

Face Charges of Ten Murders

A hunch that Detective Sergeant McCarthy had when he saw them in a high class hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., led to the arrest of Fred Nave, left, and Clyde Roberts, right, alleged members of the famous Ace Pendleton gang of bank robbers, who are blamed for ten murders in Colorado, Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, New Mexico and Utah. Rewards totaling $50,000 are to be shared in by McCarthy, shown in the inset, and two other detectives who aided in the capture.

When Blast Shook Detroit

More than a score of persons were reported injured and buildings damaged for a block around when an explosion, attributed to blackhanders destroyed the furniture store of John Garrisi at Detroit, shown above. Damage was estimated at $800,000.

RACKET, BUT NO NOISE.

Chicago—A sign in a speaking easy room "We're in the racket but we don't want any noise."

WORLD OF GOOD FROM GLY-CAS; NOTHING LIKE IT

"Feel Like I'd Never Been Sick in My Life," Mrs. Hamilton Says As Health Returns.

"I believe that every person who is suffering from stomach trouble in any form should get a box of Gly-Cas and give this medicine a trial for it has absolutely done me a world of good." Mrs. Amanda Hamilton, 558 Lynn St., Fostoria, Ohio, a widely-known and respected lady of that city, just recently said.

"My liver and stomach had been all out of order and I was having awful vomiting spells and a hot, watery substance would rise in my throat," she continued. "I had seemingly lost all desire for food and my stomach would simply burn like fire. Dizziness would have me in such terrible condition I hardly knew where I was and nervousness added to all my other suffering. The day I got the Gly-Cas and began taking it marked the time when I finally came to the turn in my road of poor health. I have improved with this medicine until I feel like I had never been sick in my life. The awful burning is gone from my stomach now and the dizziness ended, appetite improved and the truth is that every one of my former miseries is gone. I am simply in good health again and were it not for memory I'd never know I had ever been sick in my life."

Gly-Cas is sold in Dixon at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy, 501 Franklin Grove, G. M. Ives; Polo, C. R. Clothier; Ashton, G. R. Charters; Amboy, Aschenbrenner Drug; Compton, W. H. Hills; Rochelle, Barker & Sullivan and by leading druggists in all surrounding towns.—Adv.

THIS HAS HAPPENED ASHTORETH and HOLLIAS HART are newlyweds, honeymooning in Paris. Ashtoreth is a very beautiful girl, and Hollias is extraordinarily rich. He calls her "Orekid" because she reminds him of a little girl.

But happiness seems, somehow, to have eluded them. Before their marriage Ashtoreth had been a stenographer in Hollias's employ. She is years younger than he, and he idolizes her youth and beauty. In Paris she meets an old sweetheart, MONTY ENGLISH, who has gone to France to sell railroad bonds for his firm. Monty is young and Monty is handsome. But he is distressingly poor, and Ashtoreth couldn't see him at all.

He treats her rather coldly, but it is apparent that he is still in love with her. Hollias devotes himself to tennis and the collection of antiques. Both pursuits bore Ashtoreth to tears. When he is not at the courts or browsing about in old shops, he makes tender love to his little bride. And that she loves him, she knows. She has discovered that he has two front teeth that come out on their swivels, and that spells the end of romance.

The services Monty has to do with them and contrives to see him on several occasions, though Monty tries to discourage it.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLV THEY were going home again. Sailing from Havre on the Victory. In a week they would be in Boston.

Mogg was packing. Five wardrobe trunks. Four shoe boxes. And steamer trunks for the linen. Household furnishings were being crated. Brocades and credenzas, and an old refectory table that Hollias had picked up in Venice. And toilet things that were said to have been used by Marie Antoinette.

Hollias wrapped the toilet set himself, sending out for an armful of tissue. There was a tea set also, to which he gave his personal attention. The cups were diminutive china swans, with beautiful necks. And they rested on saucers of solid gold. They had belonged to the Empress Josephine. Hollias explained to Ashtoreth that Josephine's emblem was a swan, and Napoleon's a bee. He had found a piece of crimson brocade embroidered with golden bees, and believed it to be a fragment from the Emperor's canopied bed at Versailles.

Hollias was greatly excited about his treasures. Almost effeminate, Ashtoreth thought. She hated to see him handling small things with the care a woman would have given them.

The concierge came to help, and brought two assistants with him. Then Hollias handed Ashtoreth's frocks to Mogg, and helped her slip them on the hangers. He handled great piles of frothy lingerie, and made order out of chaos.

Then he ordered more packing boxes, and began the packing of his dearest finds. The concierge and his helpers might pack books and pictures.

But tea sets and toilet sets, and the vases from Limoges, crystal jars that were Pompadour's, and the snuff box that was du Barry's—Hollias handled these with reverent hands.

Ashtoreth, standing in the doorway, watched him. "It's positively womanish," she thought, "the way he loves those things."

And she thought of the way Monty would act in a room that was cluttered with lingerie and tea sets and Marie Antoinette's toilet articles.

"Like a bull in a china shop," she reflected, and smiled to herself. "Well, that's the way a man ought to act."

"Bored?" asked Hollias, glancing up from his self-occupied work of swathing a cup in 10 sheets of tissue.

"Dreadfully," she told him. "I hate packing."

"But you've nothing to do," he protested. "Mogg will take care of everything."

"I know. But I'm hungry. I wanted to go to Jack's for our last luncheon. And now you're wrapping all that junk,

SEVEN OF STATE CABINET PLACES STILL UNFILLED

Governor Emmerson Going Slowly in Naming His Dept. Heads

By MORRIS WATSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Springfield, Ill. Jan. 26—(AP)—Seekers shall seek in vain and those who seek not shall be sought.

This might well be the parable of the administration of Governor Louis L. Emmerson, which starts its third week with a cabinet incomplete, even though applicants in infinite number have done their little song and dance on the executive carpet.

The Mount Vernon banker-merchant plainly is in no hurry to fill his cabinet posts. With an eye for quality he bids for the services he wants and makes his own specifications of abilities—and what he wants he waits for. It is common knowledge that he is attempting to draft H. H. Cleveland of Moline for the department of public works, and that Cleveland is reluctant to take the post.

Meantime, Mr. Emmerson is content to congratulate himself on what he himself has termed "the good fortune" of getting Leo H. Lowe of Kewanee to take the department of trade and commerce. No less jubilant is he over getting into the official family Garrett P. Kinney, former state treasurer; Rodney Brandon of Moline, and Henry H. Kohn of Anna for directorships of finance, public welfare and purchases and construction, respectively.

Not one of the directors so far appointed applied for the position. To this fact the governor points with pride. For one directorship he has a file filled with applications. The chances are strong that the file never will be opened.

Seven cabinet posts remain to be filled. At the present rate of appointments, unless many small appointments are to be adopted, the official family will include some stepchildren for many more weeks.

The governor swung into his second week of administration with a vigorous stride that lopped 43 persons from the payroll of the state fire marshal and indicated the dawn of a definite policy of retrenchment. This act was the first major result of a study made by the governor of all payrolls in his departments. He found the funds in the fire marshal's office exhausted and discovered that on the payroll there were far too many persons whose chief activity was cashing the state treasurer's check every month.

Is Tired Out
The middle of the week found the governor at low physical ebb, a reaction from the strenuous inaugural ceremonies of the week before. Wednesday he received 62 visitors and remained in the executive offices until after 7 o'clock to accommodate all of them, so that on Thursday he announced he was more tired than he ever had been before in the state service.

Persons in a position to observe the administration closely are convinced that a strong hand has hold of the helm. While it is not a matter of discussion among state employees, the fact is nevertheless being

With Honce on His Trip Around State of Illinois

By CHARLES HONCE
(Associated Press News Editor)

Belleville, Ill.—(AP)—Back in 1814 when the St. Clair county seat was established, it was given the name of Belleville, meaning "beautiful city."

Modern industry, however, has given it a new name—"the stove city" and has made it America's greatest stove manufacturing center.

"When you think of stoves," says the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, "think of Belleville—America's foremost stove city."

If you want statistics on the subject you will be told that Belleville has fourteen manufacturing establishments exclusively devoted to the production of heating stoves, gas ranges, combination coal and gas ranges, hotel ranges, wood burners, laundry stoves, warm air furnaces and stove castings.

In fact for more than half a century Belleville has been turning out stoves and kindred products by the millions. The industry today employs 2000 or more skilled workers. But while stove production looms as the largest item on the industrial horizon some ninety other industries turn out a list of products ranging from patent medicines to pants.

Of course Belleville also is widely known as the home of Scott Field, one of the centers of balloon and airship activities of the United States air service.

This airship port covers 619 acres with sixty buildings, including an immense airship hangar. The latter is as tall as a fifteen story building, is three city blocks in length, a block in width and is capable of housing the largest dirigible ever built.

The government has invested more than $60,000,000 in Scott Field, which is a training school for airship pilots and observers, and a central supply depot for the lighter than air division of the air service. The field has an enlisted, commissioned and civilian personnel of several hundred.

Belleville's roots go back into the dim early days of the last century. The first settlement here was in 1806 and was known as Compton Hill. The new county seat came into being with the name of Belleville in 1814 when a court house and jail was ordered erected here. The city was incorporated in 1819.

Now the municipality counts its population at nearly 30,000 and is part and parcel of the great industrial and business center on both sides of the Mississippi river around St. Louis. The economic and industrial coherence of the territory is illustrated by the fact that you can ride from Belleville through a continuous string of municipalities—almost one long city. Although East St.

manifest in a new brand of efficiency on display.

Added to the governor's worries during his second week has been the enthusiasm of legislators to rush administration bills into the hopper on the theory that the governor made everything that he wanted perfectly clear in his inaugural address. Two bills, sponsored by the administration, which are expected to be introduced during the coming week are the 3 cent gasoline tax measure and the bill proposing the inclusion of referendums on the regular ballot.

A movie actress' wedding is nothin' more or less'n a change o' venue. The late Tex Rickard got as good press notices as any-buddy, fer it don't make no difference in this country what your business is if you're successful.

Louis and Belleville appear a considerable distance apart on maps, their city limits, in fact, actually touch, as each has annexed a long stretch of territory along the principal highway connecting the two communities.

Belleville's natural resources are vast and varied. There are more than sixty bituminous coal mines within a few miles of the city; limestone is available in almost unlimited amounts and clay, moulding sand and building sand are to be found in this neighborhood.

If you are interested in gastronomic details, Belleville will tell you that a large amount of asparagus is grown in this vicinity as well as much of the country's horseradish. We also are on the edge of the peach belt.

Belleville also mentions that it is the center of one of the greatest wheat and Irish potato producing counties in Illinois and approximately $500,000 worth of small fruits is grown hereabouts.

St. Louis, only fourteen miles west, is a natural market for much of Belleville's garden and orchard products.

Belleville thinks well of its homes and calls attention to the fact that the percentage of home owners is 85 per cent, probably the highest in the state.

Like many other county seats in Illinois, Belleville's downtown district pleasantly borders the "square." An interesting fact about these squares is that they usually are not a city block but are formed by cutting away a quarter of four blocks. That means that there is no thoroughfare at the right angles.

Although within a great metropolitan district served by metropolitan

WHAT ABOUT ADVERTISING

A couple of years ago the writer was engaged in conducting a series of community meetings in a county seat in Western North Carolina. Shortly after his arrival he was visited by a committee from the town library and was asked to do something or say something during the week that would cause the citizens of the community to take more interest in the local library and the books that were there for the public to use. We were told that many of the ladies of the community spent seven afternoons a week playing cards and that the men couldn't be dragged into their public library. We found that the library board had subscribed for three business magazines, which were kept on the reading table, but that they were never read.

Is this an unusual state of affairs? Not at all. And we must recognize that any amount of mere urging folks to read books on the ground that book reading is good for them is not going to greatly increase the reading of books.

The fact is that no one is going to read a book until his interest is aroused. The novel reader, the readers of the best sellers, are folks who are interested to be able to talk about the books that are being talked about. They also enjoy the plots, the romances. They have acquired the reading habit, but very few of them have acquired the student habit.

To my mind the books we read should serve us as tools. They should be more than merely entertaining, they should be informative. Sir Arthur Keith, M. D., says: "The acquisition of the student habit is one of the most valuable assets that a man or woman can carry into any line of life."

It is my profound belief that it is only through the student habit that any man can hope to be really successful in meeting changing conditions in the business world; that merchants and manufacturers must study what is happening in their own personal business; that they must know how others are meeting situations similar to their own.

No man is wise enough to know just what any other individual should do, nor even just what books he should read. But when one comes upon a book that he thinks will be helpful, he can set forth what is in the book and why he thinks it should be read, in the hope that it will create interest in the minds of those he wishes to help.

There is a book that I have recommended to many audiences—

"What About Advertising?"

I have read many books on advertising. This book is without doubt, the most helpful, clearest, most all-embracing, and most conservative analysis of advertising that I have come upon. I feel that I can speak with some authority on this subject, as for more than five years I have been making addresses on the subject "What Advertising Is Doing For Us and To Us." I have illustrated this address by using page advertisements from newspapers. It is a study of practical methods of advertising, not a sales talk for advertising. I have kept the illustrations right up to date and have collected probably 3,000 advertisements from newspapers in this study, and I have given this address before business men's organizations and advertising clubs.

That I am not alone in my opinion of the high value of this book, "What About Advertising," I will quote what noted authorities say about it.

Earnest Elmo Calkins: "I am not sure but this is the best book on this much discussed subject that has yet appeared."

Paul H. Nystrom, Marketing Expert, Columbia University: "I have no hesitation whatsoever in saying that this is positively the best book on advertising that I have been able to read from cover to cover with a feeling of comfort as well as interest. It deserves wide use and reading."

The 400 pages of this book are crowded with the most exhaustive studies of various functions of advertising that are little understood and seldom given attention. Many

BEWARE THE COUGHS THAT FOLLOW FLU!

They May Weaken Your System and Lead to Serious Trouble

You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion may help you avoid flu, but is not sold as a flu remedy. If you have fever, or think you may have the flu, see your doctor immediately. (adv.)
